Burning Boat House Reveals Shooting

WOODBURY, N. J., February 27.—(By the United Press)—Residents of Woodbury attracted to a burning boat house on Mantus Creek early today, found the body of Viola Slaye, 22, with a bullet wound in her temple and nearby Harry Moll, 27, was discovered unconscious with a bullet wound in his head.

Coroner Wood began an immediate investigation. Moll told the coroner that the girl had set fire to the boat house and then committed suicide. He said he attempted to take his own life for fear he would be accused of the murder. Two notes were found in Moll's pocket, one purporting to have been written by the girl, saying she had quarreled with Moll and decided to kill herself. The other was in Moll's handwriting saying he shot himself, saying he feared he would be charged with killing his companion. Moll was rushed to the Woodbury hospital and physicians said that he had a chance to recover. One of the notes was signed by Viola Slaye and the other by Moll. Both of the notes appeared to be written to the same hand writing according to the coroner, and he holds Moll as the author of both of them.

Coaches Jump Track; Slide On River Ice

ORANGE, MASS., February 27.—(By the Associated Press)—Passengers on a Boston and Maine Railroad train had a thrilling experience, and remarkable escape from serious injury today when two of three coaches jumped the rails, plunged down a 15-foot embankment and slid out on the ice of Miller's River. The ice supported the cars and the passengers scrambled to safety. The third car stopped on the embankment. Four of the train crew were slightly hurt. Spreading rails caused the accident, officials said.

Pomerene Scores Harding And Wilson Administrations

WASHINGTON, February 27.—(By the United Press)—Senator Alton Pomerene in the senate today made a contribution to the obsequies of President Harding's ship subsidy bill. He condemned the filibusters which killed the measure and at the same time objected to the bill as a sham and delusion. Pomerene arraigned both the Wilson and Harding administrations for not meeting the obligations of the Jones act of 1920 by the abrogation of commercial treaties and the setting up of preferential rates to meet foreign competition. This, said Pomerene, would have made the operation of the shipping board successful. He urged the subsidy bill be re-committed, including features of the Jones act.

Farm Credits Bill Up

WASHINGTON, February 27.—(By the Associated Press)—The house was proceeding today to the most important business remaining before adjournment in taking up the farm credits bill just completed by the banking committee. Plans for its consideration contemplated a vote not later than tomorrow with leaders confident of its passage and also that there would be no serious hitch in adjusting differences with the credits legislation passed by the senate.

In a statement last night explaining the purpose of the bill, Chairman McFadden of the committee said it represented "an honest attempt to provide all necessary credits which the agricultural interests of the country claim to be in need of."

Pardon Refused

HARRISBURG, PA., February 27.—(By the Associated Press)—The application for a pardon for Larkin C. Taylor, former president of the Pittsburgh Tin Plate and Steel Company, serving a prison term on a charge of conspiracy to defraud through the sale of stock, was refused by the state board of pardons today. The board gave no written opinion in the case.

Hunt For A Blonde Woman In Murder

NEW YORK, February 27.—(By the Associated Press)—Mrs. Anna Buzzi, known also as Anna Schneider, housekeeper for Frederick Schneider, wealthy contractor, who was found murdered in his automobile in a lonely section of the Bronx yesterday was arrested today as a material witness. She denied all knowledge of the crime after detectives had questioned her for six hours, and became hysterical when lodged in a cell.

Schneider, who is 39 years old, was divorced from her husband in a suit in which Schneider was named as co-respondent. The police said she was known to her neighbors as Mrs. Schneider.

Meanwhile the police continued their search for a blonde woman who was seen to leave Schneider's automobile shortly before his body was found with two bullets in the head.

The police have an accurate description of the putative killer, and a coat supposed to belong to her.

Schneider, executor of some of the biggest construction jobs in the east, including the Roosevelt apartment, said to be the largest in the world, and a million dollar viaduct, and a member of the Hudson Club, was separated from his wife. He left his office in the afternoon and fetching his pet chow dogs, Hulu and Zulu, drove to one of his projects to consult with his nephew, William Schneider. He drove back to his Broadway office, and near there he met the blonde woman who was awaiting him.

"This woman," seen by two shopkeepers, was believed by the police to have accompanied Schneider in his automobile. Nicholas Fuellner, a truck farmer, said he was nearing home when he saw the machine coming toward him. He heard two muffled reports, saw the lurch forward and then stop.

One story is that Fuellner saw the woman emerge from the car, look back and then vanish in the twilight; another is that he simply saw a woman a few moments later walking away.

Upon looking into the tonneau when the woman disappeared, Fuellner saw Schneider, falling over the wheel, dead, one hand in his overcoat pocket, the other on the steering wheel, the foot clutch disengaged. He called the police.

Harding Visits Eye Specialist

WASHINGTON, February 27.—(By the Associated Press)—President Harding today visited the offices of Dr. W. H. Wilmer, a noted eye specialist here, and had his eyes examined. At the White House it was said the president's eyes were not bothering him but that in view of the fact that he has had his present glasses for four years, he thought it desirable to see if a change were needed.

14 Driven To Streets

CLEVELAND, O., February 27.—(By the Associated Press)—Fourteen persons, including ten children, one of them bed-ridden with illness, were driven to the street this morning by fire which broke out in the basement of a two family dwelling on Franklin avenue. Joseph McClellan, former president of the International Iron Workers' Union, dashed through a blast of flames on the second floor and carried Florence Miller, his niece, ill to safety.

Refuse To Hear The Case

COLEMBUS, O., February 27.—(By the Associated Press)—The supreme court today refused to hear the case of Curtis James, Newark, found guilty of illegal possession of liquor in common pleas court and the court of appeals. One hundred and eight quarts of liquor were confiscated at his home when he was arrested November 25, 1921.

May Be Oldest Human Relic Found

NEW YORK, February 27.—(By the Associated Press)—Anthropologists said today the fossilized human skull, believed to be of the Tertiary period, discovery of which was announced in Associated Press dispatches from Buenos Aires last night, may be the oldest human relic ever unearthed. It proved authentic, Dr. Franz Boas, of Columbia University, world famous scientist, asserted that it would be even older, possibly 500,000 years that the skull of an erect-man ape, known as the pithecanthropus erectus, which was found in Java 29 years ago. It may even prove, he said, to be the skull of one of earth's first men.

"This discovery, which seems almost too marvelous to be true," Dr. Boas said, "will throw light upon this hitherto unknown period. Scientists have merely speculated upon the possible existence of man in the Tertiary period, although traces pointing to the existence of a man-like animal have been found on various rocks."

He explained that it was during the Tertiary period that the earth assumed its present geographic form and huge reptiles were being replaced by mammals. The close of the Tertiary age ushered in the glacial period of the North American hemisphere.

"The earliest man, scientists have found, dates back to around the glacial period," Dr. Boas continued. "This has not been definitely established; if it is definitely established that man existed in the Tertiary period, it will upset all accepted scientific views regarding the American continents and the antiquity of man."

Powder Magazine Blows Up; 100 Houses Damaged

PITTSBURGH, PA., February 27.—(By the Associated Press)—The mining village of Russellton, about 25 miles from Pittsburgh, was rocked by a terrific explosion early today when a powder magazine at Superior Mine Number 1 of the Superior Fuel Company blew up. The magazine was destroyed and more than 100 houses damaged. Two men were injured. First reports were that the explosion occurred in the mine.

Haynes Pleads For Public Support Of Enforcement

COLUMBUS, O., February 27.—(By the Associated Press)—The United States is at the testing time when every citizen must stand up and be counted for or against the constitution. National Prohibition Commissioner Roy A. Haynes declared in an address today before a joint session of the Ohio legislature.

"This generation of Americans must determine positively and definitely whether or not it is able to make and enforce its own laws," he continued. "This, in my humble opinion, is the greatest problem confronting America today."

Compliments Ohio law makers, Haynes said he believed the Ohio prohibition enforcement code was the most practical adopted in any state. He pointed out that under the Ohio dry laws, in 22 months, 11,000 fines and taxes collected against violators totaled $2,622,000 at a total cost for enforcement of $216,000.

Commissioner Haynes' address concerned itself primarily with a defense of prohibition and its enforcement and a plea for greater public support.

"It is not enough that a man shall obey the law and enjoy the privileges and blessings secured to him under the law," he said, "but it is the duty of the good citizen to constitute himself as far as his abilities permit, a guardian and a defender of the law. He is a short-sighted American who fails to see in the bootlegger of today both the spirit of the anarchist and the bolshevik."

Bootlegging Traitorous

"It is time that the citizens upon whom we depend to uphold our Americanism, awake to the realization that bootlegging is not a mere pastime, but a nefarious and traitorous business."

"The attitude of many men admittedly of high standing and great influence in their respective social, professional or business spheres, is surprising. When men of standing and influence violate the prohibition laws there is reason for grave concern."

"Giving figures from Ohio and other states to show that prohibition enforcement is a success, Haynes asserted that "to nullify the prohibitory laws or to repeal them will cure no evils that rise from the liquor traffic, but will set a precedent and make it easier to nullify any law that may be rendered difficult of enforcement through propaganda or un-American prejudice."

"To enforce the Volstead act," continued this speaker, "and to make the eighteenth amendment operative, will give law an added weight of authority in the public mind and proof is not wanting to show that there will be removed one of the nation's chief sources of all law violations."

"As a people, we have nothing to fear from without. No great foreign foe is prepared to jump at us with

CAPITOL JOKES

By David H. Kincheloe
U. S. Representative From Kentucky,
Second District

LIKE a story that was very popular with the army in France, it is the tale of a negro who was beating it for the back areas as fast as he could go when he was stopped by a white officer.

"Don't delay me, sah," said the negro. "I's gotta be on my way."

"Beg," replied the officer, "do you know who I am? I'm a general."

"Go on, white man, you ain't no general."

"I certainly am," insisted the officer, angrily.

"Lordy," exclaimed the negro, taking a second look. "You sure is! I musta been travellin' some, 'cause I didn't think I'd got back that fast."

President Fills Other Posts

WASHINGTON, February 27.—(By the Associated Press)—Brigadier General Frank T. Hines, retired, was nominated today by President Harding to become director of the Veterans' Bureau, succeeding C. F. Forbes, who retires tomorrow.

WASHINGTON, February 27.—(By the United Press)—President Harding today named Richard M. Tobin, of California, to be minister to the Netherlands. The president also nominated McKenzle Moss, of Bowling Green, Ky., to be assistant secretary of the treasury.

WASHINGTON, February 27.—(By the Associated Press)—Selection of Postmaster General Work to succeed Albert Fall, as secretary of the interior and of Senator Harry S. New, of Indiana, to become postmaster general was announced today at the White House.

Senator New was recently defeated for election. In putting New in the cabinet, the president is standing by an old friend. Some faction of the Republican party in Indiana has been bitterly opposed to the appointment. New is considered one of the ablest political leaders in the party. York, being a Western man has been keenly interested in matters coming under the jurisdiction of the interior department.

New is 64 years old. He was born in Indiana county, Pennsylvania. For many years he was a prominent physician.

President Harding first named him as first assistant postmaster general and then elevated him to head of the department when Will Hays resigned to become Czar of the movies.

The senate confirmed Senator New on a motion by Senator Lodge by a unanimous vote in open session.

The shift in the cabinet will take place on March 4. The president is understood to have made his selection about ten days ago. He has been under strong pressure not to appoint New.

WASHINGTON, February 27.—(By the Associated Press)—The administration will abandon efforts to obtain government aid for the American merchant marine with the failure at this session of the shipping bill, it was indicated at the White House. It was said that no effort would be made at the next session of congress to have such a bill passed.

WASHINGTON, February 27.—(By the Associated Press)—Postponement of action until the next session of congress upon President Harding's request for authority to enter the international court set up by the League of Nations, was virtually decided on today by the senate foreign relations committee.

No vote was taken but senators representing all views said the consensus of opinion was that the matter could not be brought before the senate in the time remaining before the present session ends.

The committee decided, however, to ask for further information. Senator Lodge, of Massachusetts, chairman, said he expected to confer tomorrow with President Harding.

SENATOR USES UMBRELLA ON INSULTING PASSENGER

WASHINGTON, February 27.—(By the Associated Press)—Blows were exchanged by Senator Caraway, of Arkansas, and another passenger on a Washington street car today after the man had been accused of jostling the senator and using offensive language.

The altercation occurred at Fourteenth and H streets, northwest, after both had left the street car, the unidentified passenger striking Senator Caraway on the face and the senator retaliating with blows with his umbrella on the man's back.

Senator Caraway's account of the battle was the only one available the other man went away without giving his name.

According to the senator, a fellow passenger standing behind him insisted on knocking the senator's hat down over his eyes. The senator's gentle remonstrance was returned with advice not to be "so grouchy about it," and "to shut up."

The senator replied with the quick repartee which has attracted some attention on the floor of the senate and offered to exchange cards and have a meeting later. To this the stranger responded by leaving the car with Senator Caraway in pursuit.

In the street, the passenger, a little fellow, about 45, squared off and shot a short jolt to the senator's face. Mr. Caraway returned the compliment with his umbrella and in the mauling both men lost their hats. The senator's opponent cried "enough" whereupon Mr. Caraway returned to him his hat and the fight was over.

There has not been a street duel with congressional flavor since Senator Johnson of Marshalltown, Iowa, was stabbed to death yesterday.

Stabbed To Death

LOS ANGELES, CALIF., February 27.—(By the Associated Press)—Mrs. C. Peden, formerly of Dayton, Ohio, and Anthony L. Whitley, of Los Angeles, were held by the police today pending completion of an investigation into the death of Frank L. Johnson, of Marshalltown, Iowa, who was stabbed to death yesterday.

According to reports at police headquarters, Mrs. Peden had enlisted the aid of Johnson in a difficulty over a business matter which resulted in an argument between Johnson and Whitley. Whitley held the police that Johnson had brought another man and that a "pistol was drawn."

That little rain was trotted out to let folks know it had not forgotten to precipitate as soon as it gets warm. Here's for tomorrow:

Warren, American ambassador to Japan, will submit his resignation formally within a day or two he announced after a conference with President Harding at the White House today. ## TO OBSERVE FEAST OF PURIM

The Feast of Purim, commemorating the escape from massacre of the Jews as narrated in the book of Esther, will be observed Friday night in the Jewish Temple here.

In Purim the Jews find an analogy of persecutions suffered by their race throughout history and in returning thanks for the deliverance they return thanks for all others.

Haman, the plotter against the Persians Jews, in the book of Esther story, is the prototype of all enemies of the followers of Mosaic.

In ancient days the reading of the narrative was accompanied by unrestricted comments of the congregation gathered primarily for the purpose of hearing the story read from the pulpit. The mention of Queen Esther and Mordecai occasioned applause while the trickeries of Haman were ridiculed and reviled by noisy instruments made especially for that particular festival.

Flood Of Bills Hits House; Breaks Record

COLUMBUS, February 27.—(By the Associated Press)—The general assembly today, getting back to its more or less peaceful routine after a hectic session last night during which all previous records for the number of bills introduced at one sitting went down with a crash with a total of 621 bills.

The volume of legislation offered last night was scarcely matched by its importance. Except for a series of bills introduced by Democrats and reflecting the recommendation of Governor Donahay, a joint resolution and a bill introduced in the senate to revise the workmen's compensation law and introduced a bill in the house providing for a minimum wage for women, the measures presented were generally regarded as of no great moment.

Other measures however, which attracted attention, were one bill Representative Ramey, Toledo, permitting local option on the Sunday operation of motion picture theaters, one by Senator Collister, Cleveland, imposing stringent regulations on the purchase, sale and carrying of pistols and revolvers and providing heavy penalties for those who attempt to perpetrate crimes while armed, and another by Representative Hill, of Meigs county, proposing the transfer of quail from the song bird to the game bird list and providing for a brief season—November 15 to November 20—during which the birds might be killed.

Outstanding in the program were the proposals for revision of the welfare department, which included a reversion to the former system of control of institutions by a bi-partisan board of administration; re-establishing a separate purchasing agency for the state institutions; transfer of construction work on institutional building from the highway to the welfare department and transfer of the work licensing automobiles from the secretary of state to the state post-tentary.

Bills proposing permanent registration of voters and doing away with absentee election proclamation as economic measures; consolidation of boards of trustees of state universities and normal schools into one board of governors for all institutions, submission of all plans for school structures costing more than $1,000 to the director of education for his approval and creation of a commission to confer with other states on Lake Erie, also helped to make up the program.

The only taxation recommendation of the governor to be incorporated in a bill was that which would require the printing on the back of tax receipts the amounts of the different levies and the purpose for which they were used.

Senator Kumer, submitted the workman's compensation proposals in the senate, pointing out that they had the sanction of both labor and the manufacturers and were declared by both sides to be satisfactory.

By means of the constitutional amendment and the bill it is proposed that awards for injuries under the law be increased to a maximum of $13.75 weekly and that the maximum for death awards be increased to $5,500.

Elimination of the "open liability" feature of the system whereby an injured person or the heirs of one accidentally killed, might sue a corporation for money in addition to the compensation award, if it were shown that there had been disregard of safety laws, also is contemplated. Under the new arrangement the industrial commission would make compensation settlement and suits for additional damage would be eliminated.

Introduction in the house of the minimum wage bill, which is identical with that of Senator Burke, of Lorain, killed in senate committee several weeks ago, was regarded as likely to reopen the entire question. The house bill was introduced by Representative Walther, Republican, Cleveland.

"THE FAST MAIL" COMES IN ON TIME

Fox Film Version of Lincoln J. Carter's Railroad Drama a Record Breaker

NOTHING BUT ACTION
Shown on Screen with Realism Absolutely Impossible With Stage Resources

There can be no doubt about the entertainment value of "The Fast Mail," the William Fox melodrama which was shown for the first time last night at the Eastland theatre. It is action plus and contains enough thrills to satisfy even the most critical movie fan.

"The Fast Mail" which was produced from Lincoln J. Carter's sensational railroad melodrama, is even better than the original play which ran for twenty-two seasons. All the thrills that delighted the popular love for exciting melodrama are shown on the screen with the realism which could not be attempted on the stage.

The story starts at the historic Dixie Land Steeplechase and pictures some of the fastest dare-devil riding ever shown on the screen. The hero was fouled during the running of the girl he loved. Crooked gamblers who had the girl's brother in their power had fixed the race, so that they would win the money.

During an argument over the division of the stake, one of the gamblers is shot and the other one drags the heroine into an automobile. The hero follows and the most exciting pursuit ever screened, follows. The picture is a real, hair-raising thriller and in the words of William Fox, its producer, is an "Honest Melodrama."

The wound which Thomas Cole, 21 years old, chauffeur, received in his head at the home of his sweetheart, Goldie Hudson, 1113 Thirteenth street, early last Friday morning, when a revolver in the hands of the woman was accidentally discharged, proved fatal shortly after three o'clock Monday afternoon when the young man succumbed to the injury.

Cole died at the home of his father, Charles H. Cole, 1120 Findlay street, a few hours after he had been taken there from Mercy hospital at his own request and relatives were with him at the end.

The bullet which caused Cole's death was fired from a .22-caliber pistol and entered the right side of his head just behind the ear and lodged in the brain. From the first attending physicians regarded his chances of surviving as extremely slim as the leaden missile was found imbedded too deeply in the brain to be removed successfully and no attempt was made to do so.

The Hudson woman, who was taken into custody by the police following the shooting, for investigation, persistently claims that the wounding of her lover was wholly accidental. Her story to the officers was to the effect that having the gun in her hand she jokingly remarked that she would make the canary bird sing and pointing the weapon towards the bird pulled the trigger, not knowing that the gun was loaded, she says. She said there was a report and Cole, who was sitting on the foot of her bed preparatory to taking her auto to the garage, being in range of the bullet and he fell to the floor wounded. The woman denied there had been any quarrel or trouble of any kind between them and the official investigation conducted by Chief J. S. Distel and Prosecutor S. Anselm Skelton resulted in her version being fully verified by Cole, who repeatedly told the officers and others, that the firing of the shot was accidental and he completely exonerated the woman from all blame.

The Hudson woman was detained by the officers less than twenty-four hours, as after hearing Cole's statements it was decided that it would be useless to press a charge against her and she was ordered released. The death of the victim does not change the situation in this respect, was the view taken by the officials Tuesday.

Coroner Virgil Fowler conducted an inquest over the body Tuesday, the Hudson woman being the principal witness called in the inquiry to give her version of the affair.

The young man was born at Iron-ton but had spent most of his life in this city, moving here with the family when quite young and it was here he attended the public schools and received his education. For the past three years he had been employed as a taxi driver and he was a likeable young man and popular among his associates.

In addition to his parents he is survived by two sisters, Jean and Hazel, both at home, and a grandmother, Mrs. Hattie Brown, who also resides at the Cole home.

Be Careful What You Wash Your Hair With

Many soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much free alkali which is very injurious, as it dries the scalp and makes the hair brittle.

The best thing to use is Mulsified coconut oil shampoo, for this is pure and entirely greaseless. It is very cheap and beats anything else all to pieces. You can get Mulsified at any drug store and a few ounces will last the whole family for months.

Two or three teaspoonfuls of Mulsified in a cup of glass with a little warm water is all that is required. Simply moisten the hair with water and rub the Mulsified coconut oil in. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, cleanses thoroughly, and rinses out easily. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and is soft, fresh looking bright fluffly, wavy and easy to manage. Besides, it loosens and takes out every particle of dust, dirt and dandruff. Be sure your druggist gives you Mulsified. —Advertisement.

The Chillicothe Gazette Monday said:

There are now 600 men at work at the B. & O. shops and, if present advance in business continues, 100 more men will be put to work. This was the encouraging message given to the Rotary Club, Monday,

Mr. George Hupp, who has been placed in charge as manager of the company's affairs is thus secured to the concern and will devote his entire time to the business of making the new Sherman cord tire the very best on the market.

The company's output will be gauged by Mr. Hupp to somewhere near 100 tires a day at the outset and he hopes to make that grow until the present plant, admittedly worth a quarter million dollars as a going concern has reached its maximum and that Mr. Hupp is not willing just now to place a figure on it.

THE KISS OF JUDAS

BY E. PHILLIPS OPPENHEIM

Copyright, 1922, by E. Phillips Oppenheim. Adapted by NEA Service, Inc.

SIR NORMAN GREYES, formerly of Scotland Yard, is devoting his life to tracking down an arch criminal of many aliases and disguises, but known to him as MICHAEL SAYERS. Among Sayers' secret abodes was a cottage near an English golf course where he was served by a housemaid, JANET SOALE, and lived as "Mr. Stanfield." One day while Sir Norman, a guest at the golf club, was playing the course with "Stanfield," Janet shot and killed a police officer who had tracked Sayers to the spot. The maid professed to her master and to Sir Norman complete ignorance, but later confessed to "Stanfield" and became his accomplice, as is told in the present story by Sir Norman.

On the evening of my return from the Riviera after a three-months' holiday, I was accosted in the lounge of Marbridge Hotel by a middle-aged man of inconspicuous appearance who had been seated in a corner alone. It was some few seconds before I could recall him to my memory, but curiously enough a crowd of unpleasant associations gathered themselves together in my mind even before I had recognized him.

"You haven't forgotten me and our golf down at Woking, Sir Norman?" he asked.

"I knew all about him then. 'Mr. Stanfield, isn't it?' I said. 'No, I haven't forgotten.'"

"I was a few minutes early for my party, and I accepted the offer of a cocktail from my golfing acquaintance."

"That was an extraordinary interruption to our first game," he remarked. "I never fancied my little house much afterward. I gave it up, in fact, within the year."

"I heard you had left," I told him. "You had no luck in your investigations, Sir Norman?" he inquired.

"I think my head. The subject was still a sore one with me. 'I had no luck at all,' I confessed. 'I came to certain conclusions which carried me a little way along the road, but all the clues ended abruptly. Yet I don't despair. I always have the fancy that some day or other I shall solve that mystery.'"

The waiter brought the cocktails, and we raised our glasses.

"I think, then, to that day, Sir Norman," my companion said.

"I am with you," I declared heartily.

We talked idly of various matters for a few moments, principally of golf, which I had been playing regularly in the south of France. There were several dinner-parties being given in the restaurant that evening, and some very beautiful women were in evidence. One in particular attracted my attention. She was tall, slender, slim, beautifully made. Her complexion was perfect, although a little colorless. Her strange-colored eyes had a magnetic attraction. Her hair, beautifully coiffed, was just the shade of brown which appealed to me. She bowed to my companion as she passed, and joined a little group at the farther end of the hall. The last thing I noticed about her was her wonderful string of pearls.

"That is a very beautiful woman," I remarked. "Do you know who she is?"

"My humble apartment is on the same floor as her suite," my companion replied. "She is gracious enough sometimes to remember the fact that we meet occasionally in the lift."

My friends arrived, and I made my adieux to my erstwhile golfing acquaintance. Somehow or other, my meeting with him had left an unpleasant impression behind it. It had forced my thoughts back to the humiliating recollection of the fact that the murderer of Richard Ladbroke still remained undiscovered, and that the man who had called himself Pugsley had walked away from detection under our very eyes and had never been heard of since.

Among my fellow-guests was an official of the Home Office, and our conversation naturally drifted into the subject of social order.

"Your connection with Scotland Yard having long since ceased, Sir Norman," he remarked to me, "you will not be oversensitive as to facts."

The epidemic of crime which was raging about two years ago seems to have broken out again with exactly the same results. There are four undetected murders and five great robberies up to the debit of your late department. Your people believe that the same person is at the head of it who planned all those robberies eighteen months ago and escaped arrest by shooting the inspector."

I affected to take only a casual interest in the information; but as a matter of fact, I was considerably moved. If the man who had last concealed his identity under the name of Pugsley, but whom I strongly suspected to be the notorious Michael Sayers, had really come out into the open once more, life would certainly possess a new interest for me during the next few months.

We were a party of six that evening—a celebrated criminal lawyer and his wife, my friend from the Home Office, with his wife and sister-in-law, and myself. The criminal lawyer, who was our host, heard scraps of our conversation and leaned forward.

"You did well to leave Scotland Yard when your reputation stood high, Sir Norman," he said. "A new era of crime has dawned, and the struggle is no longer equal. It isn't the raffish of the world today who take to murder and burglary. The skilled and conscientious scientists have taken their place. The criminal of today, in nine cases out of ten, is of higher mental caliber than the detective who is opposed to him."

"The struggle should be the more interesting," I remarked vaguely.

It was a fancy of mine that my continued interest in my profession should remain as little known as possible, and I talked for some time on indifferent subjects to the lady who was seated by my side. We admired Mrs. De Mendoza and her gorgeous ruse of pearls. My host intervened.

"It is women like that," he commented, "who choose to deck their bodies with jewels of fabulous value, who encourage crime."

"Roughly speaking, I dare say that necklace is worth eighty thousand pounds. If it is really true that Pugsley is once more at work, what an opportunity!"

"A woman must be very brave," my hostess declared, "to run such risks."

"The jewels are probably in the hotel safe most of the time," I suggested. "I don't suppose she goes out in them."

Our host smiled.

"I can imagine Pugsley finding a few minutes in the hotel quite sufficient," he observed. "He or his accessories, whoever they may be, would think little enough of human life by the side of say, 50,000 pounds. By killing at eight they certainly increase their chances of escape."

That closed our conversation upon the subject. We sat about in the lounge and drank coffee and liquors, danced for a time and smoked a few cigarettes. The party broke up as the lights in the lounge were being lowered. I was the only one of our little gathering remaining in the hotel, and I was talking for a few moments to the head porter, who was an old acquaintance of mine, when a man made a somewhat hurried entrance through the swing-doors and seemed on the point of proceeding to the office. As he saw me, however, he hesitated, and turning aside, addressed me.

"Excuse me, but you are Sir Norman Greyes?" he asked.

I admitted the fact.

"Can I ask you to give me five minutes of your time on a matter of urgent business?"

I looked at him with some surprise. His voice and address were good, and in appearance he differed in no respect from the crowd of diners who frequented the place. He drew a card from his pocket and handed it to me.

I stepped underneath one of the electric standards and looked at the card—"Mr. Stanley Delcheste."

Underneath was the name of a famous insurance company. I mentioned him to follow me into the deserted lounge, and invited him to take a chair.

"Many years ago, Sir Norman," he reminded me, "when you were officially engaged at Scotland Yard, you saved our firm a great loss in the matter of the Hatton Gardens emerald theft."

"I remember it quite well," I admitted.

"We understand," my visitor continued, "that you have now resigned from the Force, but we hoped that you might be inclined to undertake a commission for us. It came to the ears of our chief unexpectedly that you were staying here, and he sent me after you at once."

"I can at least hear what the business is," I replied.

"There is staying in this hotel," the insurance agent proceeded, "a Mrs. De Mendoza, the reputed widow of a fruit merchant in Buenos Aires. She is the possessor of a very wonderful pearl necklace, which she has insured with our firm for a hundred thousand pounds. Our acceptance of the policy was a grave error which we recognized almost immediately afterward. We know nothing of the lady, and under those circumstances it is against our business policy to accept the risk. We have done our best to protect ourselves, however. Since the policy was issued, we have kept in constant touch with her, and have been in daily communication with the hotel detective. By tonight's post, however, we had a message from the latter to say that he was at home ill, and that during his absence his duties would be taken over by the night watchman. The policy has only one more week to run, and will not under any conditions be renewed. We want to know if, for any fee which you care to name, you will do your best to guard the necklace for us during that week?"

May Close Deal For Hecla Lands

IRONTON, Feb. 27—Negotiations have been practically completed, by eastern interests for the purchase of the entire tract of Hecla lands, comprising some 20 square miles and now owned by Attorney Julius L. Anderson.

An engineer representing the eastern syndicate, who has been in this city since last October, who has made an exhaustive survey and examination of the proprietors, is reported to have been entirely satisfied with the result of his inspection. A report to this effect, it is understood, has been made to the parties interested and closing of the deal is said to be only a matter of time. Ironton attorneys have been commissioned to search the title to the property and as soon as this detail is completed it is expected the deal will be closed. The consideration involved was not learned but it is known that some time ago Mr. Anderson placed a valuation of $350,000 on the property.

MUST CURTAIL MAIL SERVICE HUNTINGTON, W. Va., Feb. 27—Huntington's postal service is about to receive the hardest blow in its history, judging from a statement issued yesterday by Postmaster Joseph C. LeSage. Mr. LeSage states that, owing to the exhaustion of carrier allowance, and particularly the auxiliary allowance for city delivery service, an extensive curtailment of the operation of carriers in this city will become effective at once. It is estimated that 500 new houses, to which carrier service has been extended in the last few months will be cut off the carrier list as the result of this condition.

Rehearsals Under Way Rehearsals are now under way for the production of the three plays by the Little Theatre. Tryouts were held last night and with success.

A Laxative Food that is delicious

YOU never knew before how truly delicious a breakfast of real bran food can be. Post's Bran Flakes with Other Parts of Wheat is altogether new and not a bit like the ordinary bran you may have persuaded yourself to eat in the past.

These new flakes are made by a special process, which retains with the bran other valuable parts of the wheat berry, and are crisp-cooked and appetizing. They contain the nourishing qualities of the wheat, its carbohydrates, proteins and mineral elements, plus "Nature's way" of wheat bran to induce regular habits. Post's Bran Flakes are non-irritating to any part of the digestive tract.

Happily the special process preserves practically the full vitamin content of the wheat.

The Postum Cereal Company studied and experimented for four years to find how to give you this most valuable hygienic factor, bran, in the most palatable and health promoting form.

Post's Bran Flakes is the result of those years of careful study by the Company whose name is synonymous with pure food the world over.

No chokey feeling when you swallow these delicate flakes. You don't have to try to swallow them, either, the way you do ordinary bran products.

Try them with cream or milk as your breakfast cereal tomorrow, and regularly for some days—then note the welcome difference in your regularity.

A generous package for 15 cents well get away from his friends, if he goes out at all. If the girls speak to him, he can't take to his heels like a cat with a tail tied to its tail. Common courtesy demands that he speak to his friends, and walk with them, if they are going his way. He can't get away from this, unless he takes to the tall timbers. I imagine you are spilling a lot of perfectly good times by not going with the boys while you are at school, unless of course you are attending a "good" school. If you can't trust your friend now, you never will be able to trust him. I would advise you to give him plenty of rope until he is sure you are the girl he wants.

New Boston, Dear Miss Wise—Will you please tell me why our dear brothers and sister in Christ hold so many card parties at their homes and play for prizes but most strenuously object if their sons go out on the sunny hill and engage in a game of poker? Are they not teaching the game in the home? I think they should be dealt with as other gamblers. Shame on the ones who profess godliness and allows the dirty deck of cards in their homes. No wonder there is so much gambling all over the country when it is taught in the home. Called Christian homes. Yours for a called Christian life.

I think the boys and men who play cards on the hillside are the ones who are not allowed to play in their homes. There is no harm in an innocent game of cards, regardless of report to the contrary. You can play so many innocent games with a deck of cards that it is remarkable how much innocent fun you can get out of one. You have been misinformed about cards. While people do gamble and get into mixups over them, the same people would probably get into trouble doing anything else, or nothing at all. It is the people, and not the cards that are to blame. If you want to keep your husbands and sons at home of evenings, let them play cards in their own homes, and invite their friends to play with them. If I were you I would learn to play too, and see how much fun you can get out of solitary, rum, Old Maid, euchre, five hundred, bridge, pinocchio, bears, whist, seven up, and many other games.

Dear Miss Wise—I am a young girl of 16 years, have brown eyes, auburn hair, exceedingly large and creamy complexion and am considered good looking. What colors should I wear? Also what colors will be worn in bathing suits this year. I am a good swimmer and go in bathing every day. Dolly, I read in the paper quite a while ago where a girl away from here had a bathing suit trimmed in white fur with cap to match, where do you think I could purchase one, as I think they are very becoming. Do you approve of young women and girls wearing one piece bathing suits?

I THANK YOU.
I would suggest a two piece bathing suit and also suggest that you wait until it gets warm enough to wear it before you buy it. Then you will know more about what is going to be the best word in suits. I don't imagine the fur trimmed suits you speak of would be serviceable as the bathers might take you for a drowned cat or a rabbit or some other kind of an "animal." Bathing suits have acquired the ribbon fad. The latest suits which resemble during erections for the chorines of long ago, are made with breeches and cut away skirts. Ribbon decorates the yoke, the breeches and bottom of the skirt of some of these marine wonders.

Dear Dolly—I am 23 years of age and have been keeping company with a young man of 20 for almost 2 years. He treats me awful nice and tells me loves me. He gave me an engagement ring last spring. But here is the trouble, when I left home to attend school he promised me he wouldn't go with anyone, and asked me to do the same. I was home a short time ago and he came to me, told me he had taken another girl home from church one night. I asked him to forgive him, but he said he would never do such a thing again. He said he just walked with her to settle some trouble between her and a friend. Do you think it is right, that I should forgive him and do you think he loves me? The last time we were together he insisted on us getting married next summer. He writes to me once a week and sometimes twice.

I think it was very unwise for either of you to promise not to look at anyone else, and I think you should not only forgive him, but give him the privilege of going with other girls if he wants to. You know that a popular young man can't very

Grippe
Physicians advise keeping the bowels open as a safeguard against Grippe or Influenza.
When you are constipated, not enough of Nature's lubricating liquid is produced in the bowels to keep the food waste soft and moving. Doctors prescribe Nujol because it acts like this natural lubricant and thus secures regular bowel movements by Nature's own method—lubrication.
Nujol is a lubricant—not a cathartic or laxative—cannot gripe. Try it today.

This Offers You what you'll be glad to know

A new-type tooth paste, based on modern research, has brought rich benefits to millions. Dentists the world over now advise its use. You see one of its results in glistening teeth wherever you look today.

This offers you a delightful test, to show what it means in your home.

The foe of film
Your teeth are coated with a vicious film. No ordinary tooth paste can effectively combat it. So it clings to teeth, enters crevices and stays. Most tooth troubles, most dingy teeth, are due to that clinging film.

Film absorbs stains, making the teeth look cloudy. It forms the basis of tartar. It holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay. Germs breed by millions in it.

They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea.

It was alarming
Tooth troubles due to film were constantly increasing. Very few escaped. The situation was alarming. So dental science sought for film combatants.

Research discovered two. One acts to curdle film, one to remove it, and without any harmful scouring. Able authorities proved these methods effective. Then a tooth paste was created, based on modern knowledge, and those two film combatants were embodied in it.

That tooth paste is called Pepsodent.

New protection
Pepsodent brings other new protection. It multiplies the alkalinity of the saliva. That is there to neutralize mouth acids, the cause of tooth decay. It multiplies the starch digestant in the saliva. That is there to digest starch deposits which may otherwise ferment and form acids. In all these ways, Pepsodent is bringing to careful people of some 50 nations a new dental era.

Avoid Harmful Grit
Pepsodent curdles the film and removes it without harmful scouring. Its polishing agent is far softer than enamel. Never use a film combatant which contains harsh grit.

For beauty's sake
Men and women who want prettier teeth must fight that dingy film. People who want cleaner, safer teeth must combat it.

Adventures Of The Twins
BY OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

THE Twins continued their journey in Mix-Up Land.

But it seemed silly, as Nancy said, to try to chase a house that kept jumping around, so as Jack Straw's did. Just now it was up on top of a high steep and kept spinning around when the wind blew, like a weather cock.

"I should think it would fall to pieces," said Nick, "as it's only made of dominoes stuck together."

"That certainly would," said a voice, "but, you see, all four axles keep having on it at once. That's like four fingers holding a puzzle, it can't fall apart."

"Who is talking?" demanded Nancy. "We can't see anybody who are you?"

"Look down the deep hole in front of you," answered the voice. "It's a bill that got turned upside down, when everything else got turned up side down in Mix-Up Land."

The Twins looked and sure enough there was the hole.

"Now look at the very bottom," said the voice, "and tell me what you see."

"I just see a queer-looking thing," said Nancy.

"So do I," said Nick.

"Well, that's me! I'm the queer looking thing. I feel too awful about it even to be careful of my grammar. I should say 'it is I' although feeling as much ashamed as I do, I hate to say it is either me or I."

"What are you, please?" asked Nancy, who was getting so mixed up herself she couldn't understand a word.

"I'm a windmill that used to stand on top of a high hill. That's what I am. I used to wave my arms whenever I liked. Now look at me! When that rogue, Jack Straw, turned his thumb-rig and made Apple-Pie Land into Mix-Up Land, he fixed me. I wish you could not inside of his domino house and put him out."

"We'll try," promised Nick obligingly.

SKELETON KEY ROBBER BUSY IN CITY

Police Tuesday expressed the belief that a skeleton key worker has been active in the city and is responsible for three apartment house robberies, which have been pulled off, one two weeks ago when the U. W. Miller apartment in the Kelwert flat on Fifth street was ransacked, and two Monday, when it is believed the same thief visited Mr. and Mrs. Carl Blankmeyer's flat, Grimes apartment, Second and Gay streets, and Mr. and Mrs. Norman Duwel's flat in the Covenston apartment, Gallia street, East End.

In each instance it was impossible to find out how the thief gained admission and this fact strengthens the theory that a skeleton key is being used, police say.

When Mrs. Duwel arrived at her home late Monday afternoon, after substituting for a teacher in the Fourth street building, she noticed that her bedroom furniture had been disarranged. Fearing a thief had visited her apartment, she hastened to a dresser drawer where she had $110 in bills concealed in a jewel box. Her surprise was correct, as the money had been stolen. She notified Mr. Duwel, who is a mechanic in the McDonald Bulk plant on Gallia street, and he notified the police.

However, no trace of the thief has been secured. Mr. Duwel stated to-day that a careful search of his home apparently had been made, but the thief was after "long green" and securing a healthy roll he stealthily emerged from the Duwel apartment and succeeded in covering up his tracks. He did not disturb Mrs. Duwel's jewelry or a valuable watch owned by her husband.

During the absence of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Blankmeyer a hold snuck thief or thieves, entered their apartments in the Grimes apartments, Second and Gay streets, during the noon hour Monday, and ransacking the rooms made a safe getaway with various articles of jewelry, including Mrs. Blankmeyer's diamond wedding ring and a string of pearls. The invaders also stole a revolver and a small amount of money, but overlooked a roll of bills in a dresser in a desk. The robbery was discovered by the Blankmeyers on their return to their apartments and the police were promptly notified. An investigation disclosed that the thief gained entrance by picking a latch on the front door and left through a door opening out of the kitchen.

A strange man and woman who were seen about the building just before the noon hour are suspected of the robbery and the police are bending every effort to find them. The woman entered one of the apartments and applied for work, it is said.

The stolen diamond ring was later recovered at the Southern Loan office, Eighth and Chillicothe streets, where it had been pawned for $10 by a man apparently 25 years old. J. Braffman, proprietor of the loan office, stated.

Knife Used In Fight
A two apartment house occupied by Moses Howard and Dorey Montgomery, Lakeside, New Boston, was the scene of a fight about seven o'clock Monday night in which Montgomery was badly cut and stabbed and Howard suffered bruises and slight cuts. Montgomery suffered about ten stab wounds and minor cuts, the most serious being on the head where the knife blade severed a small blood vessel. Montgomery was taken to Hempstead hospital for treatment, and he was supposed to be there this morning when Mayor W. E. Newberry and Marshal William Conley, of New Boston, met him on the street and placed him behind the bars of the village jail on a charge of cutting with intent to wound and drunkenness. Howard is to face a charge of disorderly conduct.

According to the village police, Howard claims that Montgomery came into his dining room in an intoxicated condition and started breaking dishes over his head and Howard suffered bruises and slight cuts. Montgomery suffered about ten stab wounds and minor cuts, the most serious being on the head where the knife blade severed a small blood vessel. Montgomery was taken to Hempstead hospital for treatment, and he was supposed to be there this morning when Mayor W. E. Newberry and Marshal William Conley, of New Boston, met him on the street and placed him behind the bars of the village jail on a charge of cutting with intent to wound and drunkenness. Howard is to face a charge of disorderly conduct.

Howard occupies the down stairs and Montgomery the upstairs of the same house.

Montgomery will probably be given a hearing Wednesday. Howard was released on his promise to appear for trial when wanted.

Bible From Twentieth Century Standpoint

There are two ways of regarding the Bible. One is intelligent and in accord with modern knowledge, the other not. The credulous assert that "everything in the Bible is true." Not only true but morally and ethically justifiable. Others discriminate and assert that the Bible may be subjected to reverent and scholarly criticism without in any way detracting from its supreme value as the great-above topic.

Of all students of the "book of books," none is more qualified to speak on this whole question of the attitude of an intelligent modern Christian towards the Bible than the Rev. Dr. Jackson of this city who will speak at the seven-thirty service at All Saints' Church tomorrow, Wednesday evening, on the above topic.

"The Storm" Captivates Large Audience At Sun

Were you present last night at the opening performance of "The Storm"? If you were there is no need telling you what a masterpiece, and wonderful show was on; if not your neighbor will likely pass on the good word before anything else. Since the old Opera House was put out of commission, there has never been seen in Portsmouth anything more thrilling than "The Storm." It fairly bubbles over with realism. The cast is not a large one and several of the players are getting a much needed rest, but George Whitaker, Richard Earle, Jack Hall and Edwin Scribner on one side and Florence Lewis and Lella Bill on the other put over the absorbing and dramatic story in a way, well you have to see the play to appreciate it. The great burden of the play is carried on the shoulders of three members, Miss Lewin, Messrs Whitaker and Earle. And they come out with flying colors. The acting of these three in particular surpassed anything seen in this city in many a day.

The realism of the forest fire, in act three actually brought many in the audience to their feet. The atmosphere of the big outdoors was masterly done, even to the falling of the leaves, now and then which is common in late fall. "The Storm" marks an epoch in stage theatricals in this city that will linger on the minds of everyone who sees it for many months. It is the best theatrical fare the Jack Ball Players have produced and the Sun Theater should be packed all week, for no one can go wrong in seeing "The Storm." Matinees are given today, Thursday and Saturday.

Red Hot Primary

CHICAGO, February 27.—(By the Associated Press)—Charges of kidnapping of officials, of stuffing ballot boxes and of the use of fire arms and gang politics today marked the primaries in which for the first time in major primaries and elections for the last two years, Mayor Thompson's name is not on the ballot and in which for the first time also Chicago aldermen candidates appear on a non-partisan ticket.

On the old twenty-first ward, including the "gold coast" on the Lake Michigan shore just north of the downtown business district, now the forty-second ward, Michael A. Manning, a Democratic judge, was missing and was reported to have been kidnapped by a band of five men who invaded the polling places. Investigators could find no one to admit the man had been carried away forcibly. The precinct is in an Italian neighborhood.

A heavy Republican vote was being cast, it was estimated while Democratic and Socialist candidates were chiefly without opposition.

Jersey Cattle Club Formed

Organization of a Scioto County Jersey Cattle Club to be affiliated with the state organization and the endorsement of three bills before the state legislature featured the first gathering of Jersey cattle owners and breeders held last night at the Washington Hotel on invitation of Alan N. Jordan of the Washington Jersey Dairy Farm on the West Side. About 25 Jersey cattle men were present. The gathering proved a big success and matters discussed are sure to be of help to everyone who was in attendance. The Scioto County Jersey Cattle Club was perfected with the election of officers as follows: J. A. Pendergrass, Frank W. Moulton, Portsmouth, vice president;

C. L. Knowles, Washington Jersey Dairy Farm, secretary and treasurer. Dues were fixed at $3 per year, half of this amount to go to the state club. Fifteen members enrolled in the Scioto County Jersey Cattle Club last night, which means they will see to it that Jersey cattle are given their share of attention in Scioto county.

Interesting talks were made by Prof. O. Erf, head of the Dairy Department of Ohio State University, Joseph Cannon, representative of the Ohio and American Jersey Cattle Clubs and Jacob White, of Highland county.

The program of talks and organization business followed a banquet at the hotel with Mr. Jordan acting as toastmaster. The first business after organizing was the discussion and endorsement of the three bills before the legislature. The measures are the pure-bred sire proposal; the Silver Finance bill, providing indemnity for cattle killed on account of tuberculosis; and the bill prohibiting the use of dairy terms in the sale of dairy substitutes. The secretary was ordered to notify the representative of this county and Senator of this district of the action taken.

Toastmaster Jordan introduced Mr. Erf as the first and main speaker of the evening. He is a man who knows the dairy business from A to Z, and was so interested in the meeting here yesterday that he paid his own expenses to come. In part he had the following to say:

"In order to develop a breed of cattle the first thing to do is to get pure-bred stock. Then it is necessary to feed so as to secure records. In one county in Ohio Gold Medal calves brought a minimum of $300 each, while in another county one good animal I know of went for $125. Price for pure-bred stock is largely a matter of organization and advertising.

"We want you to get interested in pure-bred cattle. Next we want you to do some test work. Finally we want you to sell your stock at good figures."

Here followed a series of questions to the hearers as to the quantity of feed given per day during the winter months in this section. The replies varied very largely; very little agreement being shown on this point.

On a general query by the speaker as to how much bedding should be given per cow during the winter one listener brought a laugh with the reply: "I feed all the hay the animals will eat and what is left they use for bedding."

"There are 168 days of pasturing in the average year in this section of the country. You can't feed a cow for $16 a year these days. We have never found any one that could get by under $80 per year and get milk. Ninety hours a year is about the average time required in a year for the milking of a cow. This is at the rate of seven minutes to a milking. Lining, feeding, etc., make it necessary to add close to another 90 hours a year or 175 to 180 hours per year needed to take care of a cow.

"A cow ought to produce 200 pounds of butter fat to pay. This is a minimum figure. The average in the United States is about 151. What's the use then of milking a cow of less than 200 pounds capacity? On the average Ohio cow of 164 pounds of butter fat you can figure your labor at 31c an hour.

"Why keep the old skates? Why not get good cows? The first thing you need for this county is a cow testing association. Then you would clean out the poor cows. First, weed out your poor cows. You've got to do this for the days when you feed cows for $60 per year are gone.

"Calves to the heifer age can not be raised under $140 per year. The average grade cow the past year sold for $81. The pure bred brought more than double this amount. Butter fat for the past six months has been hovering around 50 cents a pound. Six million pounds more of butter fat were used in the ice cream made in Ohio the past year than in the previous year. This was due to a law requiring 8 per cent butter fat to be used in ice cream. The old average was 4.5 per cent.

"You can't legislate also out of business. The public must be educated to the great value of butter. The man who eats oleo and milks a cow ought to be ashamed to look a cow in the face. Every pound of oleo your neighbor takes home takes the place of a pound of butter. It is a question of whether you want to aid your neighbor or the South Sea Islanders.

"A good cow will respond profitably to proper feeding. The bone meal you feed must be odorless and of a gelatinous nature. Kelp meal, a sea weed preparation is proving a valuable aid in cattle feeding. For best results you can't afford to have your cows go without beet pulp in their ration. Nearly 11 per cent of the dried beet material is mineral, and this is an essential.

"Much of the silage fed north of here is not properly prepared. It should be cut in quarter inch lengths and earlier. Don't put ripe corn into the silo with the hope of good results. Bad silage is the cause of much trouble to many herds. Don't cut it too coarse. Start making your silage when the corn is milky and be through before it is beyond the dough. Some of these days we will have to come back to the old system of slower cutting and a consequent better result.

"It pays both from the physical standpoint of the cow and your pocketbook to milk a good producer four times a day instead of twice. But it takes nerve to get up in the middle of the night to milk. One prominent dairymen up state increased his milk output 7.5 per cent by milking four instead of two times daily.

"I venture to say that in 20 years practically all milking will be done by machines. It makes no difference in the world who is milking the cow. If she likes you you will get better results. An uncomfortable cow will not yield her milk satisfactorily. Milk your cow with a machine, and do it rapidly. The average cow can be milked with a machine in about two minutes."

Mr. Cannon was next introduced. He is an expert organizer and spent considerable time on the need and results of a cooperating organization. In part he said:

"Dairy products are the greatest food we have in this country today. The greatest food you have, the most perishable food in the world is milk. The oleo people make quality oleo? Why doesn't the milk raiser always produce quality butter? Organizing, selling together, will improve our cream and butter. The Jersey meeting held here tonight is one of the finest things that has taken place in this part of the state."

Here the speaker digressed long enough to pay a high compliment to Alan N. Jordan's Washington Dairy Farm on the West Side, which was inspected Monday afternoon by the visiting dairymen.

"We have to have these meetings to get you fellows out so that we can work with you for yourself. The only we can have a strong Ohio Jersey cattle club is to have a group of strong local Jersey cattle clubs. Of 2,000 Jersey cattle men in Ohio but 200 organized, are carrying the burden for all.

"More Jersey cattle have been taken out of Ohio in the past two years than probably in all the other years of its history. The demand is because people in other states have been led to believe that Ohio is the place to buy Jerseys. At the State Fair in Columbus last fall the greatest Jersey cattle show ever held in the United States was put on. There never was a man yet who went out of the Jersey business except when he lay down and died."

Christopher Bramble, 783 Monroe St., Brooklyn, N. Y., Chief Quartermaster U. S. Navy, retired, is now an ardent champion of the merits of Tanlac.

"I'll stand by Tanlac to the very last," declared Mr. Bramble, "for it has helped me back on my feet and I am feeling like a new man now. I had suffered from stomach trouble for two years and was in an awful run-down condition. My appetite went back on me and when I did eat a little something I would suffer pain and misery for hours. My nerves were all out of fix. I would lie awake tossing and rolling until almost day, and I felt weak and tired all the time. I had no energy to do anything and just felt any way but right.

"Well, I just kept on losing weight and getting worse until I concluded to try Tanlac, and that was the wisest decision I ever made. It's the only medicine I ever saw that does all they say it will. I now eat three hearty meals a day and never feel a touch of indigestion and my appetite was never better, even when I was a school boy. My sleep is sound and restful and I get up mornings feeling refreshed and fine. My weight has increased and I have been built up until I never felt better in my life. If anybody doubts this statement just let them see me."

CITY-WIDE REVIVAL WILL RESUME TONIGHT

Evangelist, Refreshed By Short Rest, Will Again Flay Evil Doers; Services At 7

(By A. P. Haight)

The tendency of the church folk of Portsmouth is to compare the present revival meetings, held in the big garage to that other big revival, of the past by Rev. Wm. A. Sunday and his party. I am unfortunate in that I have never attended a "Billy" Sunday meeting. No doubt they were big features, no doubt they aroused the people to work, no doubt they did leading good to every city fortunate enough to have them. It is well to have these big things occasionally, just as well as it is that we should take exercise, or medicine for our physical well-being.

No city, no community, no home can be the best, or do its best that does not occasionally, have its spirit of enthusiasm aroused and the monotony of routine work broken.

A social function in the home, the big days of the community puts a new face on material things and even the sun shines brighter to the one who has had his spirits revived and the enjoyment of a day with friends.

It is the same with the big meetings now in progress. The great family of the church is having its great day for each member of the family, and the head of the house, the pastor, will swing back into the family circle after it is over with his heart full, his blood running high, and even the babies will be more cheerful and do less crying for milk as in the preceding days.

With the meetings planned for the week, starting tonight, there should be wonderful fellowship, great spiritual gathering, for the folks of the church, those members of the family who have planned for this great season of refreshing, will be the honor guests, and be it said to their credit, they have chosen wisely their forum of entertainment, and association in a great united effort for the betterment of themselves first, keeping ever in mind the good of the other fellow, and the welfare of every citizen of Portsmouth, from the mayor to its most lowly denizen.

Tonight, 6:45 at the First Baptist church, will be one of the most splendid gatherings of men that Portsmouth has seen in many a day. The officers of the various churches of the city will meet there, and to my mind, they are the cream of creation. A man may be good, just as good perhaps, and not be selected to administer the affairs of his church, but the position of an officer in the household of faith calls out all that is best and noblest in the man's nature, and he that has not pride enough to uphold the standard he is called to bear surely is not "every inch a man."

The officers will be headed by the pastors, a fine set of fellows, and they will march to the big tabernacle together, a large part of them will sit in the same section and will be the special guests of the evening. Dr. Anderson's message will be in part for them, the song service will be for them especially and for all in general. Then the members, those who have elected these officers to the high position they occupy, will be seated all about and taking note of the demeanor of these board will be able to better judge of the calibre of the men they have to direct the affairs of their church family.

Every one who has heard the sermons of the past three days, the song service, all the fine things that go with a great united effort for a movement forward, know that there is in store some things they have not heard, that there is some fine things in the art of living that they have not learned, and will be highly entertained and edified if they attend.

As to the calibre of the meetings, perhaps enough has been said, but there is no doubt that those who lent their endorsement to this big affair really, and truly feel every word they have uttered.

Different in type, as has been told us, from the Sunday campaign, it has all the earmarks of one that will leave lasting impressions on the city long after the members of the party have gone. It is gaining in momentum, it is going the right direction—forward.

While making comparisons with all the other big things that we have seen and heard, it might be well to think of a chautauqua. One week of a chautauqua program is good for the city. Fine talent is brought in, great musicians, fine lecturers, and entertainers of note. Yes, that's good. It has my endorsement. We buy a ticket for these good things, attend them and "let" it go home and talk over the program with the members of the family, we decide it was "great". Two weeks, or a short time at least, afterward we have forgotten it. And, there's a reason. We had no part in it. The entertainers or lecturer was the whole show. And the next year we have to buy another ticket, attend another chautauqua, and go through the same routine of sitting and forgetting.

With the revival it is different. The talent would be a credit to any chautauqua, they have been and could be now on the circuit if they chose. Their message is direct, and, uplifting, and long after the folk of Portsmouth cease to remember Dr. Anderson they will be living his message, they will be following his great lead. When Jenkins and Ackley have gone their way, Portsmouth musicians will be singing and playing the songs they rehearsed at the tabernacle and those of us who are not gifted with that power of making melody with voice or instrument will be whistling them.

Yes, the week's program is a great one and those who have not as yet been able to attend these services will do well to get in on them now, tonight.

TO MEET AT FIRST BAPTIST

Forgeries Admitted

CINCINNATI, O., Feb. 27.—Forgeries amounting to $22,500 on the Baldwin Law Publishing Company of Cleveland, were admitted in Municipal Court today by Louis H. Breitenbach, President of the Breitenbach Linotype Company, of Cincinnati.

Admission of forging of the name of the concern and the name of the president, W. E. Baldwin, came during the preliminary hearing of Karl Mog, former assistant librarian of the State Supreme Court. Breitenbach was testifying in behalf of Mog, who is charged with grand larceny and embezzlement. Mog was bound over to the grand jury under $2,000 bond.

Six Notes Involved
The forgeries, which were said to be notes, were six in number maturing in thirty, sixty and ninety days. Breitenbach admitted that he realized $14,000 on the forgeries, which were given to two Cincinnati banks last September, he said.

Explaining his action, Breitenbach said he had 2,000 volumes of the Ohio General Code on hand and that the Cleveland publishing company had refused to pay for them. Their refusal to pay, he said, placed his concern on an unsound financial basis. He fully intended, he declared, to pay up the notes.

W. E. Baldwin, President of the Cleveland Company was in Court when the admissions were drawn from Breitenbach by Attorney Edwin S. Morrissey, former county prosecutor.

For Christian Education

To help win the race against world disaster, our Nation needs, as never before, the sobering influence of Christian Education.

Teaching straight thinking and straight living to 30,000 young men and women has been Ohio Wesleyan's principal business for four generations, and with the financial help of her friends, shall be her objective for as many more.

By doing this great work, she is rendering an immeasurable service to society. In making men and women, the University loses money, therefore she must depend upon society to discharge its obligations by providing funds for a larger and better paid faculty; more and better equipped buildings; a more extensive campus and other requirements necessary to educate a constantly increasing number of young men and women.

What This $8,000,000 Program Will Accomplish

After long careful study, the University is presenting to her alumni, to members of the Methodist church, and to her many other friends, the "Ohio Wesleyan Development Program," which represents actual needs that have grown out of the much enlarged student body and out of greatly changed social, economic and educational conditions.

The Eight Million Dollars will be apportioned in this way:—

- 1—Endowment Fund to permit necessary additions to the teaching force and the payment of a living wage to the faculty. Scholarships for needy students, Retirement pensions for professors, Library maintenance, etc. $5,250,000
- 2—Construction of necessary new buildings and repairs on present ones.... $2,500,000
- 3—Campus extension and improvements $ 150,000
- 4—New apparatus and equipment..... $ 100,000

Whose Obligation Is This?

To realize the $8,000,000 Development fund, Ohio Wesleyan naturally depends upon the active financial support of the following groups:

- 1—Alumni, Alumnae and former students.
- 2—Members of the Methodist church;—every one of whom has a vital, personal interest in keeping this fountain of Methodism flowing.
- 3—Business men whose future business success depends upon the trained leadership of men and women such as Ohio Wesleyan produces.
- 4—Many friends of the University who appreciate the world's need of Christian Education and are willing to translate their sympathies into action.

You will find the interesting story of Ohio Wesleyan and her needs in new book entitled, "Build Yourself a Living Monument."

Sentenced To Three Life
Terms And Ten Years

PARKERSBURG, W. VA., Feb. 27.—When the gates of the state penitentiary closed last night on George Price, farmer, he began officially to serve three life sentences for triple murder plus a ten year sentence for felonious assault.

The sentencing of Price to the three life terms created a precedent unique in the criminal court history of West Virginia and ended a court battle of two years.

On Thanksgiving Day, 1920, Price shot and killed his wife, Mrs. Ada Price, Charles McDonald and Maggie Magal, at the same time wounding Rachel McDonald. The tragedy occurred at Hanna Station near here.

Once Sentenced to Hang
Tried for the murder of his wife, Price was found guilty and sentenced to hang on May 13, 1921. After a long legal fight, the Supreme Court granted Price a new trial. This trial was scheduled to open in court here today before Judge W. E. McDougal.

When everything was in readiness for the trial to begin, Price's attorneys caused a sensation by formally announcing a plea of guilty to each of the three murder charges and also the charge of assault.

The court immediately sentenced Price to serve three life terms in the State penitentiary for murder and ten years on the assault charge.

Nearly Done
George Wurster's new business block on Chilliote street, is receiving its finishing touches and probably will be ready for occupancy in two weeks. It has been leased by The Toggery Shop and Clarence Scheffler will be at the head of the new store which is to be handsomely equipped throughout.

Buy Lunch Room
Charles Kratzer and Ernest Davis are now the owners of the National Cafe and Lunch Room located on Second Street, just west of Chilliote. Through a deal just closed they purchased the place from John Fugitt and son, Da id.

Mr. Kratzer has had several years' experience in the lunch room business having been for a time employed at Lou Distel's restaurant in the East End.

"Coom Reprinted"
COLUMBUS, O., February 27.—The racoon is given a two weeks' longer lease on life in Ohio as a result of the action of the House of Representatives in passing the McClutock bill, fixing the open season for all fur-bearing animals from November 15 to March 1.

Criminal Confesses To
The Murder Of Child

PHILADELPHIA, PA., Feb. 27.—Wylie Morgan, the prisoner held in connection with the kidnapping Saturday of six year old Lillian Gilmore, and her five year old sister, Dorothy, confessed last night, led the detectives to a spot on a creek near Roydon, Pa., where the body of Lillian was found in a tree stump hole. Croydon is 20 miles north of this city.

The child's body was taken to the house of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gilmore in the Kensington district.

Shortly after the searching party returned to the city a large crowd surrounded the station house where Morgan was placed and for a time it was feared an attempt would be made to storm the building. The police, however, soon dispersed the crowds.

Child Leads Searchers
Little Dorothy Gilmore, whose pathetic story of the kidnapping and assault led to Morgan's arrest yesterday, had practically recovered today from her experience. She led a party of searchers yesterday to an ice covered pond at Torresdale Avenue and Bridge Street, where she said Morgan put her out of his motor car and from where she managed to make her way home.

Twenty-four Years Ago
The meeting held at the Grand Opera House, under the auspices of the campaign committee of the friends of the new charter, was well attended. Addresses were made by Judge J. C. Miller, Judge G. M. Osborne and Hon. James W. Newman, and the audience was told of the benefits which would come under the new plan of city government. Judge A. T. Holcomb was chairman of the meeting.

Licenses to wed were issued to William Jones, of Russell, Ky., and Julia Call, of Bloom Switch, and Edward W. Cox, of Wheelersburg, and Jessie Kuhnner, of Bloom Furnace.

Clay Huffman sustained a fractured arm and a broken nose in a fall from the top of a house on Seventh street on which he was assisting in putting on a new roof.

Walter Reinhard closed a contract with Walter Mann's circus and prepared to leave to join the show.

William Lindsay, former Portsmouth base ball pitcher, was married in Cincinnati. His bride was a Portsmouth girl, Miss Lily Bosham.

STRONG AND WELL AFTER BAD ATTACK OF "NERVES"

Representative of Western Southern Life Insurance Co.
Tells of His Experience with Ka-di-ok.

Mr. B. F. Howell, living at 86 W. Rich street, Columbus, a well-known business man, having represented the Western Southern Life Insurance Company for some years, recently expressed his gratification over the results he obtained from using Ka-di-ok. He says: "I was in an extremely nervous condition, unable to sleep at night and was weak and exhausted generally. I was told about Ka-di-ok and took several bottles with the most satisfactory results. It strengthened my nerves, gave me a good appetite and helped me in every way. I am now feeling as well and strong as ever and have no trouble in getting to sleep when I go to bed. Ka-di-ok is a fine nerve remedy and tonic. In my judgment there is nothing to equal it. I am seldom without it."

Ka-di-ok cannot fail to help any one who is in a weak, run-down, nervous condition. Right now is a good time to fortify yourself against the rigors of winter by taking a good tonic. Get a bottle today from your nearest druggist.

Ka-di-ok can be had in Portsmouth at Fisher & Stretch Drug Store.

A TRIUMPH FOR LAW

EQUALITY before the law, too often seemingly forgotten as the very essence of our system of jurisprudence, has been vindicated splendidly in the fact that the four LaMontagne brothers of New York, socially and financially prominent, are in jail in Jersey, serving time for violating the prohibition laws.

Until these lawbreakers were behind the bars, it was injudicious to regard their conviction as triumph for the law. There are so many ways to get aside verdicts. But they are in cells. The efforts of the highest priced lawyers to save them failed and they are compelled to take their punishment.

Not under the prohibition law but under its unsatisfactory enforcement, the influential, whether political, social or financial, seem at times to be favored. The inept foreigner is easy prey for the enforcement agents, but the others seem to "keep their cellars filled and encounter no difficulty in getting their illegal drink."

Consequently the arrest, conviction and imprisonment of these New Yorkers revives the hopes of those who have had a regrettable feeling that prohibition was class legislation and that only those too clumsy to avoid detection were ever caught and punished.

The LaMontagne case is an inspiration and example, therefore to those who insist that the law can and must be enforced. It ought to be accepted by courts as a trustworthy precedent. It ought to spur police agents to new activity.

The most insidious menace to orderly government is the feeling that the "big fellows" can escape punishment for law violations. The law makes no such provisions, but the feeling persists. Its growth will undermine the confidence of the great masses in government and especially in the prohibition law. The LaMontagne case ought to check this suspicion, but more cases will be necessary before it is entirely dissipated.

RICHES OF PHARAOH

READ the latest description of the banquet table of a modern Croesus or of the "den" of a movie star or operatic diva, peer into the deposit box of a pet danseuse and catalogue her jewels, read Pizarro and give imagination full play—then multiply the composite impression by a thousand and approach realization of the wealth that went into the making of Tutankhamun's life.

Excavations in Egypt continue to reveal evidence of luxury almost unimaginable. The treasures that have been found huddled in the dead Pharaoh's tomb stagger moderns who estimate values in terms of dollars. Jewels, massive gold ornaments, vases of beautiful workmanship, colorings of marvelous beauty, fabrics of rare texture—so runs the catalogue of Tutankhamun's treasures that have set the world wondering.

Of Tutankhamun's reign little, if anything, is known. The outgivings of his tomb lie before the eyes of men in mockery of the death-defying pride or greed that prompted him to attempt to carry them with him in his exit. All is vanity, saith the preacher.

THE RUBBER SUPPLY

THE proposal to inquire into the world's production of crude rubber is one that opens the way to great possibilities. The consumption of rubber by the United States is becoming so great that additional sources of crude rubber should be made available. The Philippine islands and perhaps Hawaii are suitable for growing rubber. Possibly other regions under the American flag would be found suitable. At any rate, it is the duty of the government to extend the rubber resources of the nation, and this without delay.

Control of the present sources of crude rubber is not in the hands of Americans. The supply is virtually cornered, or at least is so regulated as to become a club over the heads of American consumers. Inasmuch as rubber has become an indispensable material, whose use is rapidly increasing, it is proper that the United States should become independent of foreign control.

Some kind of enclosure should be provided for road hogs.

The modern reformer seems bent on sticking his nose into everybody's business.

It is sometimes hard to remember whether a film star is married again or still.

Even book etiquette does not stamp leaving a man when his talk becomes tiresome as impolite.

Further Herin trials have been begun. Apparently somebody still labors under the misapprehension that a crime was committed.

New York-Day-By-Day

BY O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, February 27.—In the sylvan purlieus of Gramercy Park is The Players, just far enough away from the city's roar to seem almost rural. It was once the home of Edwin Booth and bequeathed by him to those in the arts.

It seems to me the only club remaining in New York that savors of idyllic romance. Conversation never rises above the click of billiard balls. The peaceful lounges, wide old stairways and great open hearths inspire members unconsciously to walk on tip-toes.

Any luncheon hour brings men whose names are known all over the world. At one table, Oliver Herford, silver haired and a bit stooped—one thinks of him always as Pan; Don Marquis, cherubic and beaming; (Who wouldn't beam with a bit on Broadway?); Isaac Marcossow, who has talked to Fijians and circled the world a dozen times.

At another table: James Flagg, the illustrator, and Julian Street, each handsome enough to pose for the Lyndocker brothers who sit across the way; Joe Chase, who has painted presidents, and Ernest Glendinning the actor.

Outside is the merry shout of children. A few of the foreign-born driving goats from out of the East Side and peering through barred gates of the park at more fortunate brothers and sisters. The privileged, only, have keys to this picturesque spot.

Some months ago The Players was torn with dissension. Younger members wanted to move uptown and desert the wreaths of the past. But when it came to a final vote the count was overwhelmingly for remaining in the present location.

There is another type of clubman —far removed from the dignity that enshrouds those at The Players. He is a midnight supper clubman. Jostled and elephantine. In short, a gay dog. His club is an apartment with roof garden and fountain high above the street. He is devoted to jazzy dressing-gowns and La Vie Parisienne. He has a big heart and is never lacking in companionship, although they can scarcely be termed anything but "fair weather" friends. He has telephone numbers. O, my yes! And he can flush up a flock of beauties in jig time. You can tell him in the daytime by his diamond cuff links, broad striped silk shirts and fuzzy fedora hat. And rubber set mustache.

Incidentally, they do not call them "gold diggers" anymore in the land of the midnight sun. They are known as "shoulder weepers." They can weep over all kinds of misfortune in the taxi going home. Perhaps they are about to be evicted, they have paid $400 on the fur coat and unless they pay the $200 balance in 24 hours it is lost, or, mayhap, the auto is in pawn at the garage. Whatever it is, the imitation they do of a young Niagara is pitiful to behold.

One of the big hotels announces that the upkeep of furnishing writing paper and envelopes to correspondents who are not guests amounts to more than $6,000 a year. To stop the leak, guests must go to the cashier for cards, giving them the privilege of the writing room.

Turk Malone, one of the handiest men with his fists on the Bowery in the early nineties, is now the night cashier in a lunch room on Tenth Avenue. There was one night in a Bowery dance hall that Turk engaged in 15 separate fistfights and came out victor. His cronies always said that he came out of every battle with his hair uncombed.

Doc Koko's KOLUM

A Premature Spring Song

Dear Princess of the Seasons, why delay'st
To fly to that first tryst where we shall meet?

Darling, I wait to welcome, and to greet
Thy coming—fear not thou the barren waste.

Of dreary February, but make haste
To outrun flapping Time on lightsome feet!

Each year, I listen, eager for thy light,
Soft footfall on the floor of fallen leaves:

And through the chill moons when the frosty veaves
Her fragile fringes, diamonded and bright,

Alone have I rehearsed a pretty rite
To honor thee when earth thy gift receives.

Just now it seemed a promise stirred my heart—
The song of robins in a pink-flowered tree!

And then I trembled with that kiss from thee
And, wondering, dreamed how thou with artless art

Upon the broad brown canvas dost impart
A beauty that transcends man's imagery!

Again I seemed to feel your breezes blow;
I seemed to smell the violets again.

And lilac flowers on the breeze, but then
A great bell waked me, booming through the snow.

Reminded thus that Winter's still the show.
I'll pause and thaw my frozen fountain-pen:

He Liked Corn
An Englishman newly arrived in this country was taken home to dinner one night by a friend. There was corn on the table and the host, knowing that most Englishmen are not very familiar with this vegetable, asked if he liked it. "Oh, yes," replied the visitor, apparently not wishing to appear discourteous, "I like it."
